

MARS – MEDIA AGAINST RACISM IN SPORT

NATIONAL MEDIA ENCOUNTERS

Media, Diversity & Racism in Sport – Media Cross-Production for Inclusive Media Coverage

VENUE & DATES Austria (Vienna) – 14.09.11 – 17.09.11

Raum der IG Architektur

Gumpendorferstraße 63b

1060 Wien

BACKGROUND

Today, less than a quarter of the people in the news, disseminated worldwide, are women and only one eighth of news stories focus on women, even though women account for over 53% of the world population, (GMMP, 2010)! Homosexuals, bisexuals and transsexuals represent roughly 6% of the population of the United Kingdom but account for less than 1% of the population seen on television in that country (CDN 2009-10 Progress Report). In France as well as in Belgium, around one tenth of people who speak in television news programmes are seen as non-white (CSA France, Macé, 2008 & CSA Belgium, Bodson, 2009).

The MARS – Media against racism in sport – EU / CoE joint programme builds upon previous actions and recommendations of various Council of Europe's bodies on media pluralism, expression of diversity and non discrimination. Based also on the outcomes of the 2008-10 CoE's Speak out against discrimination Campaign, MARS aims at fostering expression of diversity and non discrimination as a permanent angle of approach of media coverage.

To do so, MARS will focus, though not exclusively, on sport media coverage. Sport is a major field of media content production as well as coverage and an important area for building social cohesion. It is also a source of tensions between groups, communities, or even nations. At the same time, the press covers cultural and social aspects of sport in less than 5% of the articles. 40% of all sports articles refer to only one source and 20 % refer to no sources at all! (Play the Game, 2005)!

Through the sources they use, the subjects they select and the treatment they choose, the media influence the agenda (what to think about) and public perception (how to think) of contemporary issues. This is why the Council of Europe considers truly inclusive information, where everyone can contribute as witnesses, players, producers etc, as a real challenge of today's European societies for living together, strengthening social cohesion while ensuring that everyone participates in public and democratic debates!

Applied to sport issues, MARS wants to lead to innovative modes of production that could be reproduced in all media sectors and in which expression of diversity and non-discrimination, as a constant angle of approach, are used by any form of media coverage. In achieving these outcomes, the MARS programme offers media professionals (journalism students and trainers, journalists, media managers, etc.) to participate to various activities, in particular National Media Encounters to explore the possibilities of developing ways of producing truly inclusive media contents.

OBJECTIVES

To encourage, by organising a national media encounter, pairings of media professionals with a view to co-produce and co-disseminate high-quality and professional written or audiovisual media reports on sports' issues, even if not exclusively, including non-discrimination and expression of diversity as an angle of approach of media coverage,

To raise awareness among media professionals, via their own co-production and co-distribution ventures, of possible innovative modes of production of truly inclusive media contents that contribute to foster mutual understanding,

To contribute to the development of local and national networks of media professionals for inclusive media coverage to enrich media contents while ensuring that everyone participates in public and democratic debates

CONTENT

Production and dissemination of media cross-reports on sport considered as a global issue, even if not exclusively, made by pair of media professionals, including non discrimination and expression of diversity as an angle of approach of media coverage, focusing more particularly on how intercultural and inclusive media contents contribute to reduce prejudices, to fight against discrimination and to foster mutual understanding.

The media encounter will focus on professional practices. Participants will therefore be asked to produce, by pair or trio, a report offering different perspectives on the above-mentioned topics. The way the subjects dealt with are treated in these reports must reflect their local and national dimensions.

Based on concrete production activity, the encounter should give media professionals a better understanding of the benefits that everyone can derive from the formation of partnerships at local and national level between media professionals in order to contribute to intercultural dialogue, expression of diversity and non discrimination.

Lastly, participants are asked to disseminate their report in their own media or a media of their choice and in the country in which the encounter is implemented.

As well as permitting comparison of professional practices, the purpose of the encounter is to enable public opinion to see and hear a different way of expressing the diversity that exists in today's European societies.

In addition to the media professionals involved in the initiative, the programme will include a session open to the national press at which the reports and the conclusions of the encounter will be presented, in order to ensure coverage of the broad issues in relation to intercultural dialogue, expression of diversity and non discrimination.
